Thaksin foes consider election boycott

BANGKOK—THAI OPPOSITION LEADERS ARE EXPECTED Monday to announce whether they will boycott next year's election in Prime Minister Thaksin Shinawatra, a move that could mean the longest single-term stint in office against the pro-democracy movement.

The move comes as the Thai government has been facing the resurgence of the "Red Shirts" movement, a group of people who demand the government to be more accountable to the people.

Thaksin Shinawatra, who was ousted from office in 2006, is expected to lead the opposition.

Korea glows, Japan fades in Olympics

SEOUL, Aug. 17 (AP) — The Korean Olympic team is glowing with pride and confidence as it prepares for the upcoming games. The team's performance in the preliminary rounds has been exceptional, with many athletes showing signs of a strong medal run. The Korean flag is being waved enthusiastically by the crowd, and the national anthem is being played with great fervor. The team's coach, Kim Jong-il, is a former leader of North Korea, and his presence has added a layer of political intrigue to the team's success. The Korean media is celebrating the team's achievements, and the public is showing a renewed interest in the Olympics. The team's success is seen as a reflection of the country's growing power and influence on the world stage.

Ogilvy spurns Love, tops Match Play tilt

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ogilvy & Mather advertising agency has won the Match Play tournament, defeating the Love &; Company agency. The victory was a significant upset, as Love & Company was the favorite to win. The Ogilvy team's strategy was to focus on the strengths of their individual players, while Love & Company relied on a more traditional team approach. The Ogilvy team's performance was praised for its creativity and innovation, while Love & Company's performance was seen as more predictable. The tournament was a highly competitive event, with many other agencies participating. The Ogilvy team's victory is a testament to their skill and talent, and it is expected that they will continue to be a major force in the advertising industry.
